SCHOOL PROTEST HALTS ACADEMY FAST-TRACK PLAN

Schools commissioner agrees to 'slow down' process

William Mata

LAST-DITCH talks have saved Milwards Primary School and Nursery from being fast-tracked towards academy status, after protests by teachers, parents and governors.

Armed with placards, pupils joined staff outside the school in Paringdon Road, Harlow, on the last day of term in protest at proposals to bring the school under NET Academies Trust control from September.

The protesters believe NET is not the right partner, and have concerns over the impact on the quality of teaching within the school.

United

PTA chairwoman Sarah Short said: "We stand united as parents, teachers, governors and the wider community to achieve what is best for our children and the future of our school."

"We will fight for our freedom of choice, and a clear and transparent process. We may only be a small school, but we speak with a loud voice and we will be heard."

Milwards has a policy of nurturing pupils with special educational needs, by making provisions for them to join in with the full curriculum and through a close working relationship with parents.

NO TO NET: Children, teachers and governors protest against plans for academisation of Milwards school

They are an accredited Senco school, which recognises their capacity and efforts to cater for students of all abilities.

Academies are independent, state-funded schools overseen by a multi-school trust. The Conservative Government wants to academise all schools and prioritises those underperforming.

Despite having a "good" Ofsted rating, leaders at the primary are resigned to becoming an academy after they missed their target for the number of Year 6 leavers achieving the benchmark Level 4 SAT result. The results prompted Tim Coulson, regional schools commissioner for the East of England, to step in.

Governors are opposed to his establishment of an interim executive board (IEB) to decide the school's fate.

The IEB would take control away from governors and potentially make a snap decision to make the school an academy before the 2016-17 academic year.

Chairman of governors Brian Tarran said this board would contain members from NET, and emails

Warning of bogus police stealing cars from drivers

CRIMINALS impersonating police officers are stopping vehicles on Essex motorways, demanding drivers hand over the keys and driving off in them.

Motorists have been warned to be careful by Essex Police after two similar thefts this week.

First, on Saturday on the M11 near Harlow, a Mercedes Sprinter van was stopped and stolen by four men – one of whom had a firearm – in a silver Ford Mondeo. The two occupants were left by the side of the road but were unharmed.

On Monday, at about 2.10pm, a silver Ford Mondeo equipped with a blue flashing light requested a grey Volkswagen Transporter van pull over on the anticlockwise M25 between junctions 27 and 28.

Three men posing as police officers made the driver get out. No weapons were seen but one of the men had handcuffs.

Stopped

Detective Chief Inspector Stuart Smith of the Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate, who is leading both investigations, said: "A direction has been given to our officers that they should not, unless in emergency circumstances, be in an unmarked car and attempt to stop a driver."

"Anyone who is signalled at to stop by someone in a car which may appear to be unmarked police is asked not to stop, but to call 999 immediately to verify whether the vehicle and its occupants are genuine."

In the first incident the Mondeo was registered LO62 FOU and the stolen Mercedes van was registered KR60 NHZ.

In the second incident the Volkswagen van was registered RE15 UCV but the victim did not get the number for the Mondeo.

■ Anyone with information about either of the incidents is asked to call police on 101.

OUT OF SIGHT OUT OF MIND: Police pose with a SCAMnesty bin outside Essex Police Headquarters

Help stop fraud by handing over mail

RESIDENTS are being encouraged to help stop fraud by handing in scam mail as part of Essex Police campaign SCAMnesty.

An estimated £5 billion is conned out of people by telephone or postage scams every year and alongside Essex Trading Standards police are hoping to clamp down on fraudsters.

Five Harlow libraries will host the service, as will the Civic Centre and Latton Bush Centre where anyone can anonymously post the letters into a SCAMnesty bin.

Scams

Councillor Kevin Bentley, deputy leader of Essex County Council, said: "Scams are increasingly more elaborate and difficult to spot."

"They catch one in every ten of us out and it is nothing to be ashamed of admitting that you were had."

"By anonymously dropping any scam mail you receive into the SCAMnesty boxes Essex Police and Essex Trading Standards can build up evidence and target the fraudsters."

"This is done by cutting off their operations and stopping thousands of people being conned out of their hard-earned cash."

Warning about leaving children home alone

NSPCC speak after a number of calls about youngsters

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE NSPCC is urging parents in Essex to think carefully before leaving their children home alone during the summer holidays.

Nationwide the charity's helpline received 453 calls and emails between July and September last year from adults concerned about youngsters being left unattended.

Of these more than three-quarters - 366 - were so serious they were passed to police or social services.

Throughout last year the helpline received 1,729 calls and emails from adults concerned about children being left to fend for themselves, with more than half of those referred to police or social services under 10.

The NSPCC's ChildLine service also delivered 273 counselling sessions to children and young people last year who were worried about being left home alone.

In Essex, 61 calls were made to the NSPCC Helpline last year (2014-15) regarding children being home alone. This year (2015-16) 50 calls were made, but the number of referrals has increased from 36 last year to 40 this year.

Across the border in Hertfordshire, more than 80 per cent of calls (20 overall) this year (2015-16) were referred to authorities. Last year (2014-15) 44 calls were made.

One woman who called the 24-hour helpline said: "I'm really worried about a young girl who's been in the house by herself for a whole day now. Her mother visits her partner over the weekends."

"The child is always looking very sad and unkempt which upsets me."

"This has been going on for months but I felt as if I couldn't say anything as I'm related to them and I didn't want to compromise our relationship. But I just can't keep quiet anymore."

Another told counsellors: "I'm worried about some children who live nearby and are left alone all day. Sometimes they don't even go to school."

"I feel sorry for the mum because she's working full-time."

"She used to have a babysitter for them but even she's stopped coming around."

"Sometimes I pop over to check up on the children but they don't always open the door to me even though I can hear them inside."

"I'm worried something dangerous could happen to them while their mum's at work. It makes me really sad."

The law does not give a minimum age for leaving children alone at home but it is against the law if it puts them at risk.

Peter Wanless, chief executive of the NSPCC said: "Summer holidays can be a fun time for children but it's also when they are more likely to be left home alone as parents face increasing childcare pressures."

"This could explain why we see a spike in calls to our helpline during these months."

"Leaving your child home alone can be a difficult decision as children mature at different ages - there is no 'one size fits all' answer. But it could put them at greater risk of accident or injury."

"So I would urge parents to use their common sense when deciding if their child could cope."

"They should also ask them how they feel about being left alone and talk to them about what to do in an emergency."

"Parents are best placed to know what is right for their child so it is vital there is flexibility for them to decide."

Beautiful Judy looking for home following collar injury

This is the beautiful Judy, she is yet another casualty of a collar injury.

We are seeing so many cats in our care with this horrific injury, our advice would be to microchip your cat not to put a collar on it.

The good news is Judy is recovering wonderfully and will be looking for her new home in the next couple of weeks.

She is very affectionate and loves the top of her head rubbed, she also loves head butting you when she wants something, so don't think you will be able to ignore her.

If you think you could offer Judy a home please look on our website or contact our clinic for more information.

Unfortunately our inspectors have been called out to several incidents in Harlow over the past week of dogs left in cars.

Many people still believe that it's ok to leave a dog in a car on a warm day if the windows are left open or they're parked in the shade, but the truth is, it's still a very dangerous situation for the dog.

A car can become as hot as an oven very quickly, even when it doesn't feel that warm. If you see a dog in distress in a car on a warm day don't be afraid to dial 999.

Kitten season is in full force now and we as a branch are struggling to cope with all the unwanted litters.

The problem is two fold in that not only do people have unwanted kittens that they are leaving with us but we are also receiving lots of calls of feral kittens being born in people's gardens. Do not delay in reporting feral kittens to us, the younger we get them the better chance we have of socialising them and rehoming them, we are then also able to neuter the mother and prevent further feral cat colonies.

Jackson message to brave Ben: You Are Not Alone

Tribute act will boost funds for cerebral palsy sufferer

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A HARLOW performer has stepped in to help raise much-needed funds for a child with cerebral palsy.

Britain's Got Talent star and Michael Jackson tribute act Rory Jackson, who lives in Harlow, read about the plight of 12-year-old Ben Baddeley who requires £2,000 worth of treatment for his disability after NHS funding was cut.

The 30-year-old dancer will travel to Ben's hometown of Stoke-on-Trent on one of his few rest days during his nationwide Dance Machine tour to perform a fundraising show.

Ben's mum, Amy Baddeley, 32, said: "It was quite a shock and absolutely out of the blue to get a call from Rory - I was quite starstruck. He is such a lovely person."

"Even though it is a long way to travel to Stoke on his day off he has agreed to do a show for him."

Obsessed

"It is great because Ben absolutely loves Michael Jackson and is obsessed with the moonwalk."

The family is facing a daily struggle to raise funds for the treatment for Ben who has spastic diplegia cerebral palsy.

After the cash-strapped NHS pulled the plug on all treatment, Amy and her husband Gary paid £11,400 for an operation in 2014 which has allowed Ben to walk for the first time.

He still feels pain due to muscle stiffness but could be able to run round with his peers before the end of the year through therapy.

The family faces an uphill battle to keep the funding going which makes events like Rory's important.

SHOW: Rory Jackson

BRAVE: Ben Baddeley

The special event is on September 18 with a meal included in the £20 ticket price and Amy is hoping to raise £2,000, for a month's treatment, from the night.

She added: "It has been hard for six months as people don't have money to keep donating. There are so many families in the same position as us."

"The NHS will no longer pay for anything at all."

Amy has another son Joshua, who is eight. She said the show will be orientated towards children rather than be Rory's regular montage of Michael Jackson video dance sequences.

"He wants it to be a surprise," she said.

"He will add in a few more things to make it kiddy orientated."

Rory said he was happy to help out and hopes to perform a second charity show for Ben in November.

He said: "Their story is very sad and it sounded like they were really let down. I thought I could use the spotlight Britain's Got Talent has given me to help them with a charity show."

School protest forces rethink of academy fast track moves

from Dr Coulson had expressed a preference for the group taking control.

This is despite the school claiming no good reason had been given for selecting NET over Harlow Inspirational Learning Trust, which controls The Henry Moore Primary School and is their preference.

NET already controls Abbotswold Primary Academy, Longwood Primary Academy and Latton Green Primary Academy.

However, after protests, angry letters from parents, an online petition signed by 361 and meetings with Harlow MP Robert Halfon, Dr Coulson has backed down.

In a letter to Mr Halfon, Dr Coulson said: "I understand the concerns that parents have raised with you, including those whose children have special educational needs."

"In order to ensure that the concerns can properly be addressed and that we are at the end of term, I am contacting the school to say we are slowing down any decisions about the school."

Mr Tarran added: "There will be a meeting in mid-August and there will be an opportunity to discuss a preferred option. I don't think this is a victory, it is the right thing for the school."

Tweetathon to show how 999 is wrongly used

Man calls police to report fox in house

Sam Meadows

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ESSEX Police posted details of the 999 calls they received to their force control room to social media site Twitter in an effort to make people use the emergency number properly.

The 24-hour-long tweetathon, from 6am Friday to 6am on Saturday was launched as the force released stories and audio of time-wasting calls with people ringing to complain about cold pizzas and undercooked Nando's chicken.

Among the most bizarre was a call from a venue that a stag party had stolen a taxi and were driving it around the car park.

Other calls included, a friendly dispute bubbling over leading to the throwing of a jacuzzi and a man calling 101 to ask why he had called the police yesterday when drunk.

Someone also called police from outside Southend police station asking to be arrested despite hav-

And a victim giving a statement at a police station called 101 asking for the air conditioning to be turned down while they waited for officers.

During the 24-hour period, 937 emergency calls to 999 were received and 3,000 non-emergency calls to 101 were dealt with.

Using the hashtag #FCRLIVE, more than 330 tweets were sent out during the tweetathon which includes replies to questions from members of the public.

The event reached more than 1.5m Twitter users online, with people from across the UK viewing the tweets.

Inspector Sarah Harding said: "We are really pleased with the positive response to the tweetathon and I hope it has provided the public with an insight into our demand and response issues as well as demonstrating the different types and volumes of incidents.

"Some of the incidents we tweeted may be humorous but they come with a serious message – for every inappropriate 999 call we receive, someone who urgently needs our help is kept waiting."

The police also received hundreds of calls relating to more serious incidents including burglaries, violent incidents taking place linked to the night-time economy and missing people.

Family say thank you with £2k donation

A DONATION of £2,000 has been given to Princess Alexandra Hospital's neonatal intensive care unit by a family who received treatment there. Carol and Graeme Shadbolt and their daughter Amy returned to the unit in Hamstel Road, where care was given to their daughter Leigh in 1988.

The money was raised by Mr Shadbolt during his time as captain at North Weald Golf Club last year.

Mr and Mrs Shadbolt were joined by the owner of the golf club Bradley Smith and his wife Stacey.

PAH charity co-ordinator Jamie Pring explained: "What was amazing was that after 28 years they were met with nurse Julie Brazier who cared for them and their baby bringing back lots of memories and emotions for both them and her."

"The family would like to see the money spent on improving the facilities for other families during their stay on the special care baby unit."

The PAH's charity is the overarching body for all charitable activities at the hospital.

IS IT HIM? Jamie Vardy lookalike Lee Chapman in Harlow with Alfie Higgingson at Langley Colts Youth Football Club awards ceremony

Young players surprised by special guest

YOUNG footballers could not believe their eyes when they thought England striker Jamie Vardy had arrived at their awards evening.

But players from Langley Colts Youth Football Club were no less impressed when they discovered it was actually his professional lookalike Lee Chapman handing out the end of season trophies to all their teams.

Mark Walker, 44, club chairman and under 12's coach, said: "When he first walked into the room they all thought he was the real thing. He was a splitting image."

Mr Chapman has been given six months off from his job as a postman to pursue the lookalike business after Vardy shot to fame during Leicester City's remarkable Premier League title triumph.

The ceremony was held at Great Parndon Community Centre, in Abercrombie Way, Harlow, for all teams from the Under 12s to the Development Squad.

Taskforce calls for investment

Rail line funding crucial for development

Sinead Holland

star@hertsexsexnews.co.uk

STANSTED Airport has called on the Government and Network Rail to address the "chronic underinvestment" in train services between London and Cambridge which serve Harlow.

Chris Wiggan, head of external affairs, spoke out after the West Anglia Taskforce working group published its long-awaited conclusions about the rail network.

The probe confirmed infrastructure on the line between London, Cambridge and Stansted Airport via Harlow Town makes services slow, unreliable and does not have the capacity to cater for more passengers and new housing without substantial investment to coincide with the introduction of Crossrail 2.

The taskforce says that new funding must be secured to build a further two tracks between Tottenham Hale and Broxbourne as an early phase of Crossrail 2.

That work will also help accelerate the delivery of 25,000 new homes and up to 10,000 new jobs.

It suggests it would add up to £15 billion to the region's economy and provide an additional four trains per hour to some stops.

Mr Wiggan, a member of the taskforce, said: "The taskforce has clearly explored the challenges and highlighted the chronic underinvestment that has faced the West Anglia mainline over the decades and set out an ambitious long term plan to transform the railway and the region."

"We and other businesses along the line believe quick and effective measures will deliver immediate benefits to airline passengers, businesses and commuters and will be critical in attracting new airlines to Stansted to serve the burgeoning growth corridor between London and Cambridge."

The taskforce was set up by former chancellor George Osborne and former London mayor Boris Johnson.

The latter's successor Sadiq Khan said: "I have been clear about my commitment to Crossrail 2 and the benefits this will bring to the capital. But it is crucial that we secure funding to upgrade the West Anglia mainline before the construction of Crossrail 2 begins. That will help us unlock investment that will support vital new housing development in north London."

The taskforce is also working on a plan for short and medium term improvements that can be implemented in advance of 'four-tracking' on the line. There will also be talks with businesses about the potential for private sector investment.

Cllr Kevin Bentley, Essex County Council cabinet member for economic growth, and member of the West Anglia Taskforce, said: "Investment in the line is absolutely vital for future economic growth in Essex."

"Improved journey times and the thousands of jobs and houses it will create will benefit not only existing residents but also attract talented people and businesses into the county."

Learner driver caught driving at 130mph

A LEARNER driver caught travelling in excess of 130mph on the M25 motorway has been disqualified and fined.

Cydney Mantle, of Blandford Road, Beckenham, Kent, was caught on camera travelling at 132mph in a 70mph limit on the motorway near Epping at 11.30pm on September 13.

The 28-year-old woman only held a provisional driving licence, failed to display 'L' plates on the Audi car she was driving and was not permitted to be driving on a motorway.

A Notice of Intended Prosecution was sent to her home address and she appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court on Tuesday, July 19.

Mantle told the court she drove the car to get home after a night out with her partner because he had been drinking and should not have been behind the wheel. She gave no explanation for the excessive speed.

She was disqualified for six months, fined £220, ordered to pay £90 costs and a £22 victim surcharge.

The disqualification means she is banned from driving any vehicle on the road and will be unable to take driving lessons for this period of time.

Adam Pipe, Casualty Reduction Manager at Essex Police, said: "Speed is a contributory factor to 60 per cent of collisions on the roads of Essex. Speeding risks and ruins lives and there are no excuses for such irresponsible driving behaviour."

"I hope this sends out a clear message to drivers and anyone thinking about learning to drive. If you're concerned about speeding where you live, email driving.complaints@essex.pnn.police.uk."

Olympics help to up numbers at sports clubs

Rise in participation on back of Games

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

COACHES from sports clubs in Harlow have mixed feelings about whether the London 2012 Olympics has boosted participation numbers in the region.

Four years on from the Games and a week before the Olympics in Rio, some 34.8 per cent of adults are considered active in Essex according to County Hall statistics, while many teams have seen a spike in people taking part.

Steve Lott, chairman of Harlow Athletic Club, said: "There was a rise that summer, we had massive numbers that we could not keep up with."

"It has slowed down since then. We gave them three weeks' notice to see if it was for them or not."

"We are now at the point where we cannot grow any more unless we get more coaches."

Peter James, managing director of Harlow Gymnastics, said the club enjoyed similar success on the back of the London Games - and is expecting an influx of newcomers after this year's Olympics in Brazil.

He said: "We did have a large increase of people wanting to take part around the Games."

"It did boost membership for us but I am not sure if that is from the legacy campaign or if people saw it on television and fancied coming along."

Heroes

"I think the results Britain got in gymnastics is mostly what made a big difference for us as for the first time they have British gymnasts to look up to whereas before they used to count on the Russians as their heroes."

Essex played their part in the games as Hadleigh Park hosted the mountain bike events. The venue is now the only mountain bike course in the world which is open to the public for free.

Essex Council Council has supported 60 athletes, with three so far confirmed a place in Rio.

Their legacy scheme Sportivate, which offers sporting opportunities for 11-25 year-olds, has seen 20,160 participants since it launched in 2011.

Councillor Ray Gooding, council cabinet member with responsibility for sport and physical activity, said: "Since 2012, the council has worked hard to sustain a local Olympic legacy and used the London Games as a catalyst for increasing sport and physical activity in the county."

However, some clubs cannot claim to have seen such a legacy from 2012.

Kevin Wootton, chairman of Harlow Amateur Boxing Club, said: "It has been very consistent. We never got a spike at all. We always try to encourage participation but we never got affected by any of that."

"We have got a lot of young fighters coming through but it is not a direct result of the Olympics."

"It is not an easy sport. There are often concerned parents."

GREEN DAY: Councillor Edna Stevens leads the celebrations for the second flag in Harlow Town Park

Praise for quality of town's green spaces

A SECOND Green Flag has been raised in Harlow to reflect the town's efforts to preserve its parks.

For the first time Keep Britain Tidy, who recognise quality green spaces, awarded a flag to Harlow Town Park, while Parndon Wood Nature Reserve secured their eighth in successive years.

After presenting the flag on Thursday, councillor Tony Durcan, Harlow Council portfolio holder for regeneration and enterprise, said: "It is a recognition of hard work from so many people."

"This is the first time the town has been awarded two Green Flags from Keep Britain Tidy."

"I am sure Sylvia Crowe - the landscape architect who designed the park - would be proud of us as we were able to achieve what she wanted."

Legacy

"I want to thank every single person who has made a contribution. We are making a legacy difference in the town."

In 20 years 1,686 Green Flags have been handed out nationally, and in 2016 more have been distributed than ever before.

Cllr Edna Stevens, chairwoman of Harlow Council, said: "Thank you to Tony Durcan for your efforts, you have put your heart and soul into it."

"I want to thank Darren Fazackerley (landscape and biodiversity manager at Harlow Council) for his work with this."

"The biggest compliment I have received was when someone said to me they have walked through the Town Park and how beautiful it looks."

"Compliments like that say it all."

LINKFEST: Organisers delighted with turnout for free music event at bandstand Rocking in record numbers

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ORGANISERS are hailing last weekend's LinkFest as the best Harlow Town Park has ever seen.

Sunny weather and music from the likes of Expose and Hit Parade attracted an estimated crowd of 2,000 to the park bandstand on Sunday afternoon.

Jamie Pring, LinkFest organiser, said: "It was amazing. I don't think I have seen so many people out there before."

"They were having a great time getting down the front and dancing. I think it was down to the bands, the weather and the fact we had a dance area near the stage for the first time."

Wanted

"It was exactly how we wanted it to go."

Now in its fifth year, free music festival LinkFest has previously been affected by the rain which led to poor attendance for one of the three events last year.

A decision was made to achieve quality rather than quantity in 2016 by cutting the number of festivals to two, with the second planned for Sunday, August 28.

The family event also had performances from local bands Dawgfish, Archive, The Stoliars

and Ultimatum.

Mr Pring added: "They were the standout act. There are a couple of bands that people had not seen like Hit Parade who got really good reactions."

"Dean, the lead singer from Dawgfish, gave it absolutely everything, they were really good."

LinkFest is reliant on the work of volunteers and supports the work of The Princess Alexandra Hospital Charity and Places for People.

The festival in August will be headlined by Jimi Hendrix tribute Are You Experienced? and will feature festival regulars Steve Forward, Anthem, Candace and Funky Voices choir.

Bus stop needs a trolley station

SIR, Please could we have a trolley station near the bus stop.
I see people carrying heavy shopping and nowhere to leave the trolley (me for one) not all of us have cars.
I have had to leave my trolley near the bus stop two weeks running, leaving behind the £1 for anyone who takes it.
Thank you in advance.

Have we really made progress?

SIR, I was pleased to read (Letters, July 7) the excellent report on the Somme Commemoration held in Harlow Market Square on July 1.

I also found the event very moving. In a little over 100 days of the battle one million men were killed - it is very difficult to visualise slaughter on that scale.

Recently there has been a debate about who would press the nuclear bomb button.

One Trident submarine nuclear missile would, if aimed at a city, like Birmingham for example, kill a million men, women and children in a minute.
Is this progress?

Shame on you Harlow Council

SIR, After Cllr Nick Churchill complained about the grass in Summers Park not being cut, it finally was.

However, because it was so high the ground is covered in drying grass turning into straw and children cannot play on it and it is impossible to walk on it anyway.

Harlow Council is systematically destroying our lovely green spaces with their non-cutting policy.

Only a while ago you could walk anywhere but now everything is overgrown and looks uncared for. Harlow used to be a place with lovely green spaces but not anymore.

Shame on you Harlow Council!

SIR, With the knowledge that many companies are able to offer training for their staff, I decided to do something for the general public as well and through the Harlow Star, I advised that I had booked the mobile Dementia Training

READER'S PHOTO

■ Star reader Roy Simms captured this image near Old Harlow. He said: "Thought your readers might be interested to see a picture of some Fungi I found growing on a log in a small copse near old Harlow I think you will agree it is unusual." If you have a photograph you have taken in or around Harlow which you would like to be featured in the Star, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and when it was taken, to star@hertssexnews.co.uk. Please remember to include your name and address.

Unit for anyone to attend.

The Mobile Virtual Dementia Training unit will be in Harlow on Tuesday, August 9 at The Lady of Fatima Church Hall Car Park and for only £30 per person, anyone can attend.
Although bookable in advance as there are only 36 places, which are selling rapidly so please don't hesitate to book now.

Please email me at linda@saif.org.uk or lindott10@gmail.com or telephone 01279 726777 or 03452306777.

This virtual tour from Training2Care Ltd puts you in the shoes of someone who has dementia and gives a much clearer insight into their daily life.

I undertook the tour two years ago and was absolutely amazed by the insight and the work that had clearly gone into this and would encourage anyone who has a member of their family who has dementia or even if you just want to learn more, to undertake the tour.

The training lasts for just a few hours and there are three sessions with 12 + people at a time, so there is a limit of 36 people on the day - morning session, midday and afternoon.

Mobility scooter blocked by cars

SIR, As a disabled person using a mobility scooter I am having to divert and ride on the road.

This is because the indiscriminate parking of vehicles on the footpath is a real problem.

Not only do they park on the pathway sometimes the same vehicle is parked for days at a time even when space becomes available on the road.

I must assume that these people are extremely tired and walking a few metres is beyond their capabilities.

Parking across disabled drop kerbs, again causing disabled scooters to drive in the road.

Stay safe and out of quarries

SIR, I am writing to request your readers' help in raising awareness of water safety during the school summer holidays and the warmer weather.

The Mineral Products Association (MPA) is supporting the water safety campaigns being run by other organisations such as the RNLI, RLSS and the Fire and Rescue Services.

Collectively, we do not want to discourage members of the public from enjoying the water but would like people to be aware of the risks and choose to swim in areas that are safe.

On average, there are circa 400 accidental drownings each year spread across the UK.

Many of these tragic deaths are in open water such as quarry lakes, reservoirs, rivers and canals.

All too often, these tragedies occur when people are enjoying a leisure activity or are engaged in what they perceive as harmless fun.

The tragic death last week of a nineteen year old boy, who drowned whilst swimming with friends in a former quarry lake, is a tragic reminder of the importance of these messages.

Man-made quarry lakes or reservoirs can be particularly unsuitable for swimmers and paddlers.

Often they can be extremely deep, have sudden changes in water depth, be difficult to exit and conceal a range of hazards such as pumps, entangling weeds, rocks and old machinery.

Significantly, the water in quarry lakes and reservoirs can be extremely cold even on a hot summer's day.

At 15°C and below, the body can experience cold water shock when immersed in water, this results in a sudden, involuntary inhalation of water into the lungs which can be deadly.

The cold water can also cause even strong swimmers to tire quickly, become breathless and potentially disorientated.

With over 800 active and thousands of former quarries spread across the UK, it is likely that many of your readers will live within a few miles of one of these sites. A large number of these sites will have lakes or similar water filled voids.

To find out more, view the campaign Facebook page Stay Safe Stay Out of Quarries and "share" this with others.

Please also remember that warning signs and fences are there to help protect you and your family.

Prince's Trust is there for youth

SIR, It will be interesting to see what the GDP figures tell us about the state of the UK economy in the months leading up to the EU referendum.

Positive or negative, I want to highlight another set of figures released recently (July 26) which reveal how the economy has gained a significant boost from an unexpected quarter - a charity.

Research by NEF Consulting shows that The Prince's Trust has made a £1.4 billion contribution to society over the last ten years, including £118 million across the East of England.

We've done this by moving young people out of unemployment and into outcomes which ultimately benefit the economy.

Since 1976 we have supported 825,000 young people, with three in four achieving a positive outcome - moving into education, employment or training.

As well as helping over 80,000 young entrepreneurs to set up in business, we've supported some of our most vulnerable young people to get off benefits and start learning or earning.

By working at a grassroots level, the trust has helped generate green shoots where there might have been nothing, and these young people have gone on to financially benefit the Midlands and the UK as a whole.

Whatever times lay ahead for the UK's economy, The Prince's Trust will be there for the next generation of young people who need our support to flourish.

Hard-working cubs 'credit to Scouting community'

HARLOW Alzheimer's Society visited 16th Harlow Cubs about dementia as part of their A Million Hands initiative.

The charity service, based at the Latton Bush Centre, led the youngsters through a series of activities aimed at busting myths about the disease.

Ros Sonderskov and Marion Howell, who work for the Alzheimer's Society, led the session aimed at creating a dementia-friendly generation.

Badge

Once the cubs had completed their training they were awarded an honorary badge, to show they understood the five key lessons taught.

The cub pack, who meet at Risdens, Harlow, has been creating memory boxes over recent weeks containing photos from the past which they presented on the day of the activity session.

Marion said afterwards: "So much hard work and thought had gone into the boxes."

"The cubs had collected pictures on a whole range of topics."

"The boxes will be used regularly at the Alzheimer's Society's weekly Active Minds group, which runs at St Andrew's Church every Wednesday."

"The 16th Harlow Cub pack are a real credit to the scouting movement and to their families."

Anniversary couple celebrate with party

Vic and Peggy Lashmar mark 75 years of marriage

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A COUPLE whose skills and spirit helped build Harlow New Town are celebrating 75 years of marriage.

Second World War veteran Vic Lashmar and his wife Peggy tied the knot on July 20, 1941 at the young age of 19 at the parish church in East Ham, in London.

Shortly afterwards Mr Lashmar was called up and the pair did not see each other for six years while he served with the army in North Africa.

Love

But against all odds the pair, who are now both 97, remained together and are still very much in love to this day, living in Tye Green Lodge Care Home, in Harlow.

They received a framed letter signed by the Queen with a picture of the monarch attached to mark the occasion.

Their daughter Gloria McCartney, who also lives in Harlow, was one of several family members to join the couple's friends for a celebratory party.

She said: "I don't think the

ROYAL APPROVAL: Vic Lashmar and his wife Peggy on the day of their 75th wedding anniversary

Queen sends many cards for 75th wedding anniversaries and dad looked very pleased.

"They are very happy in Tye Green Lodge and we celebrated with a beautiful party. We had friends, family and residents of the lodge. A lady came and sang with them."

"I think they both worked very hard and they say give and take. My dad adores my mum, but she would always keep him in line."

Mr and Mrs Lashmar have one child in Gloria, one grandson, Andrew, and one great-granddaughter named Kyrsten.

They met while they were both working at Tate and Lyle Sugar in Silvertown, London, and moved to Harlow in 1950 after Mr Lashmar trained to become a bricklayer, and helped build the town.

In the six years in between he won five medals for his military exploits.

They settled in Chippingfield, in Old Harlow, where they lived for 63 years until 2013 when they moved to Tye Green Lodge.

During that time Mr Lashmar worked until he was 80, first as a builder before completing various jobs with Standard Telephone and Cables, where his wife worked for years as an inspector.

Community health to be celebrated at awards

NOMINATIONS are being sought for the second annual The West Essex Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) Awards.

The 2016 edition, held on September 29, will honour community projects, medics, pharmacists and members of the public who promote health and wellbeing.

Winners from the 12 categories will be crowned at the CCG annual general meeting.

Andrew Geldard, chief officer of West Essex CCG said: "We want to celebrate their contributions to west Essex with a cheer of your health."

"We'll also be applauding the professionals who keep our local community healthy and ensure that local people experience high quality, joined-up care."

Dr Rob Gerlis, chair of West Essex CCG said: "This is the second time we have run these awards and we want to build on the success of last year. It is so important to see the real stories behind what we do as a clinical commissioning group, to see the contributions made by volunteers and to recognise those who go above and beyond. West Essex CCG wants to take the lead in recognising and rewarding the inspirational members of our community."

Herbie wins a medal

TAKING things slow helped win Herbie a medal at the World Snail Championships.

The annual event took place in Norfolk earlier this month.

Around 200 snails took part in the competition, which was spread over 13 heats and a final.

And the title went to Herbie II, complete with red, white and blue paint reminiscent of the legendary Volkswagen Beetle of the films, who proved too slippery for its rivals.

The winner was brought to the table by Colin Voss and his family.

"We found five snails," he said. "This was the biggest one and we painted them all this morning."

In brief

Date for closure set

HARLOW: BHS in the Harvey Centre, Harlow, will shut for the final time next month after going into administration.

The downstairs café of the department store has ceased trading while stock is being sold off at discount prices.

Customers are also being given the opportunity to buy store fixtures. The shop will close on August 20.

Appeal after assault

HARLOW: A 23-year-old man was left with cuts to his head and face after being struck with a bottle on the dance floor of a bar in Harlow.

The man was at TwentyOne Bar in Post Office Walk just before 4am on Sunday when he was assaulted.

The victim, from east London, was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital, in Hamstel Road, Harlow, for treatment.

Anyone with information is asked to contact Harlow CID on 101.

Man appears in court

HARLOW: A man appeared in Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Saturday charged with possession of an offensive weapon following an incident at a property in Ladyshot where a man was assaulted.

Jurijs Leonovs, 36, of Ladyshot, Harlow, was arrested on Friday.

He was later charged with aggravated burglary, criminal damage and possession of an offensive weapon.

A man was taken to hospital with lacerations to his hands.

Youngsters take on first junior parkrun

More than 100 young people run in town park event

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

MORE than 100 youngsters sped around the first ever junior parkrun held in Harlow Town Park.

The new two-kilometre event, specifically for children aged four to 14, is held at 9am every Sunday, 24 hours after the adult equivalent.

At the inaugural event, Hayden Maleary, 14, led a field of 110 young runners around two laps of the park's Showground, near Pets Corner, to cross the line first in 7 min 09 – a time many adults would struggle to keep pace with.

Catherine Penketh, event director, said: "It is the same principal, but in the main parkrun children (aged 10 and under) have to run with an adult."

"Here they can run from the age of four so they can go at their own pace."

"We have had lots of children who are capable of running 5km (the standard length of parkrun) but there are some who cannot run the distance."

She added: "Children have to be seen by two marshals at all times. Running on the main course would have involved too many marshals."

KEEP RUNNING: The youngsters make their way around the course in Harlow Town Park

Organisers were not sure how many were going to turn up for the first edition, which was not widely publicised over fears the event would be swamped with entries.

But despite warm conditions making running harder for some the event proved a success for all taking part.

Catherine added: "After 11 (junior parkruns) you get a wristband to show you have now completed the distance of a half-marathon, if you get 22 you get a second and if you run 50 you get a third."

"We are always looking for volunteers. We are having to cancel the edition on July 31, due to the Pets Corner anniversary, but we will be there every week after."

Free running sessions for ladies only at town park

A SERIES of free ladies-only running sessions will be held in Harlow over the summer.

Led by a qualified instructor the beginner sessions, which help ladies learn to run, are held every Saturday from 10am to 11am until August 20 starting at the School Lane car park.

The sessions called Leaping Ladies include a health check at the beginning and the end, and are open for all women.

They are run by personal training company, Hoggs Fitness and First Aid, supported by Active Harlow and Harlow Council.

A spokesman for Harlow Council said: "Sport England's This Girl Can campaign has been a real catalyst and contributed to more and more women leading active lifestyles. Sport England's Active People Survey demonstrates that the number of women playing sport and being active is increasing faster than it is for men."

"The Active People Survey results of December 2015 demonstrate that athletics is now the second most popular sport and participation is rising, up 98,700 over the 12-month period with much of that participation being driven by women taking part in running."

If you are interested in taking part, call David Hogg on 07734 298235 or email david@hoggsfitness.co.uk.

YOUNG SPARKS: Children from Church Langley Childminders Group at Harlow Fire Station

Childminders take young on trip to fire station

YOUNG children were treated to a tour around Harlow fire station on a trip with Church Langley Childminders' Group.

The Red Watch team from the station, based in Fourth Avenue, showed the 28 youngsters the fire engines, safety clothing and hoses.

Church Langley Childminders Group is a collective of 20 Ofsted registered minders based in or around Church Langley in Harlow.

One member Georgina Jones said: "They learnt all about what happens when an emergency call comes into the station, what equipment is used, and how the firefighters find all of the houses in Harlow."

"They were allowed on-board one of the engines, got to try on the safety clothing and even got to use the hoses."

The group has previously staged a party to celebrate the Queen's 90th birthday, a quiz night and an Easter egg hunt.

They also recently held a night at Harlow Greyhound Stadium.

Coding software is trialled by students

First school use of learning packs filmed by Google

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

COMPLICATED computer coding was made easy for a Harlow class who trialled new software developed by the University College London.

Year 7 computer science students at Passmores Academy, in Traces Road, spent a morning completing tasks on the Push Python and I Spy programmes, which will be rolled out to schools in September.

Dave White, from University College London, who designed the software and led the session, said: "Kids can get dispirited when they learn coding as it is so convoluted."

Mistakes

"But with this programme they can do something instantly."

"There are no mistakes that can be made in writing code, they just have to solve the problem."

"They were saying I can solve the problem and I can do it without having to write code."

"Eventually they will be able to create their own patterns."

Mr White's creation has already won the International Google Award and staff from the internet giant filmed the activities.

CODE BREAKERS: Year 7 students outside Passmores Academy

The day also included an outdoor call and response exercise.

Using the school's paving, which is laid out like a chess board, students followed instructions to take steps forward and backwards, spelling out different letters. The exercise showed students how to use instructional commands to make patterns and complete designs – much like how coding works.

After the session Mr White added: "It was really good, they got into it."

"We are trailing it with Passmores, and while I cannot be sure it will be a hit, I think it is a really good idea and it has had a good response."

Computer science teacher Caron Fry welcomed the activities as part of the academy's efforts to encourage computational thinking.

She said: "They get into the mood of how to do it before getting into the nitty gritty."

"It makes coding more accessible and something the students can enjoy."

HAWAIIAN: Hannah, Nicci and Victoria at the Kiddi Caru fun day

Beach life fun day at pre-school

A HARLOW pre-school raised £500 for charity with a beach-themed fun day.

Kiddi Caru Day Nursery, in Kiln Lane, held a barbecue, limbo competition, hula-hoop game, face painting, lucky dip and a fancy dress competition.

The money raised will go towards the work of Home-Start UK, a charity dedicated to supporting families with young children, who have a base in Harlow Study Centre.

Louise Farrow, nursery manager, said: "We all had a fantastic day and are delighted that we managed to raise so much money for this amazing cause."

"A big thank you to all of the local families who made this possible by coming along and joining in the fun."

All money raised by the fun day will help to ensure Home-Start's volunteers based at 300 centres around the UK have the training and support they need to continue to make a difference to the lives of vulnerable children.

Food donated by Harlow Islamic Centre

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A CAR full of food collected during Muslim fast Ramadan was presented to charity Harlow Foodbank by Harlow Islamic Centre.

IZHB Community Collaborations Projects organised the donation as part of an attempt to unite the town for greater causes.

During a two-week period towards the end of Ramadan, IZHB collected enough long life food from the Islamic Centre to fill the inside of a four-wheel-drive vehicle.

Ian Hanif-Boyley, co-founder of IZHB, then handed over the donation to David Evans, Harlow Foodbank warehouse manager.

Mr Hanif-Boyley said: "We wish to make a positive impact in our community."

"Harlow Foodbank provides a vital service for people in our community and approaching Harlow Islamic Centre was a natural choice for us particularly as a key focus for Muslims in the month of Ramadan is about charity and giving to the needy."

During Ramadan practicing Muslims are not allowed to eat in the time between sunrise and sunset in a period dedicated to prayer and mastering self-control.

IZHB co-founder Zahida Hanif-Boyley added: "As a Muslim, my belief teaches me to build good relations with fellow humans and share with them of what I have. In fact, the themes of community, unity and strong social relationships are common in Islamic teachings."

Unity

"This is what IZHB Community Collaborations Projects is all about, we wish to facilitate projects between community groups that will help to promote unity within our community."

Harlow Foodbank provide emergency supplies to families, who are in risk of going hungry.

The service, whose storeroom is based in Housham Hall Farm in Matching Tye, bucked a national trend by recording a decrease in referrals this year.

During the 2015/16 financial year 2,744 people used the service compared to 3,133 last year in the town. However, figures were up by 2.28 per cent across the country.

Gary Knott, director of community services of Michael Roberts Charitable Trust - who run Harlow Foodbank, added: "We really do value our continued partnership with the Harlow Islamic Centre."

"We have been greatly encouraged by their enthusiasm and commitment in providing donated food to the Foodbank over many years."

Harlow Foodbank typically collect items such as cereal, soup and pasta from various drop off points around the town.

Mr Knott continued: "We would like to thank members of Harlow Islamic Centre for their very kind donation of food, which we received this week, and will help us support local people in crisis."

"These donations were from the Muslim community facilitated by IZHB Community Collaborations Projects and they intend to maintain this support which helps us and helps them fulfil their objective of community cohesion."

Cheerleading squad take national crown

CHEERLEADING teams from Harlow squad Illuminate Allstars performed admirably at the Future Cheers Internationals competition.

The Bournemouth event, which acts as a national championship, attracted teams from across the country and Illuminate, who train at Harlow Gymnastics Club, in Broadley Road, were right up with the best of them.

Illuminate Ultraviolet, a senior team of cheerleaders aged 17-32, took top honours by finishing first in their age category.

The Harlow squad had six other teams taking part in the event including Illuminate Neon, a team of ages ranging from 12-26, who finished second in their category.

Samantha Bond, organiser of Illuminate, said: "We are ecstatic to have one a national championship title and to take the top trophy and a banner home to the gym at Sumners Leisure Centre."

Samantha added: "The team had travelled to Ireland the previous month and won the title there too, considering that this was the team's first year competing at this level and age group."

"It's a great achievement."

13 beaches to enjoy in Essex

The sun is shining and it's the perfect time to get down to your nearest beach. Here in Essex we have to grab every chance we can to head to the seaside – let's face it, we don't get that many opportunities to bask in the sun and splash about in the sea.

But when it's a scorcher, we're spoilt for choice. Here's a look at the best beaches in Essex:

Frinton-on-Sea

Boasting rows of Victorian beach huts, Frinton is known for its clean, sandy beaches and stretches of green grass on the cliff tops. So if you don't want to eat on the beach you can picnic and play ballgames on the grass.

How to get there: Follow the A120 to B1033. Turn into Frinton at 'the Gates'. The Esplanade is at the end of Connaught Avenue. There is a railway station in Frinton-on-Sea and a bus service runs from Clacton-on-Sea.

Walton-on-the-Naze

Families flock here in the summer because the beaches are nice and there are lots of amenities. Backed by the cliffs, the gently sloping beaches at Walton surround the Walton pier, filled with many amusements. Also featuring a miniature indoor theme park and restaurants with sea views.

How to get there: Follow the A120 to Harwich, A133 to Clacton, then the B1033 and B1034 to Walton. Go through Walton town centre and follow the brown tourist signs to The Naze, P&D Car Park. There is a station at Walton-on-the-Naze from London Liverpool Street.

Clacton-on-Sea

Often called 'the jewel in the crown of the Essex coast', Clacton beach is what you'd expect from a classic British seaside holiday. There is a Victoria pier, amusements, cafes and lots of things to see and do. It's a sand and shingle beach and is close to the Walton and Frinton.

How to get there: Follow the A133 to Rosemary Road/B1032 in Clacton-on-Sea. Trains to Clacton-on-Sea from London Liverpool Street.

Martello Beach, Clacton

This is the largest beach in Essex and is also great for families. It is a popular beach with many activities on offer including crazy golf, sailing and kayaking. The sandy beach has a lifeguard service as it is normally very busy. Located near the beach are disabled toilets, a first aid point and a lost child centre.

How to get there: Go from the A120 to take the A133 into Clacton. The closest railway station is at Clacton-on-Sea and Thorpe-le-Soken. National Express trains run from London.

Three Shells beach, Southend-on-Sea

The Three Shells beach is the nearest one to all the action of Southend seafront. It's not huge but it's central and is well-kept. It's the closest beach to Adventure Island, and the hundreds of shops, cafes and amusements along the front. New for 2016 is the Three Shells Lagoon which allows families to swim and paddle all day long without worrying about the tides. This beach also has a play area for kids, a shower and its own café.

Leigh-on-Sea

This is the far quieter option than nearby Southend. It's at the far end of Southend seafront, but this beach appeals to all ages. It's more calm and relaxing, even during the summer months, when it is a hotspot for windsurfing and sailing enthusiasts. During the peak summer season, seafood stalls sell cockles and jellied eels.

How to get there: Follow the A1114, A130 and Southend Arterial Rd/A127 to Southend-on-Sea. Trains to Leigh-on-Sea from London Fenchurch Street.

Brightlingsea

Packed with colourful beach huts, Brightlingsea is perfect for a slightly quieter family day out. It boasts excellent sandy beaches and a selection of amenities. You can go for a swim, relax or watch the boats bobbing on the water. If you don't fancy the sea, there's the popular lido in which you can take a dip. It's also very popular with yacht enthusiasts.

How to get there: Take the A133, the B1029, Station Rd and B1029 to Upper Park Rd in Brightlingsea. The nearest railway station to Brightlingsea is at Alresford, but a more regular service is available from Wivenhoe. Trains from here travel to London Liverpool Street via Colchester and Chelmsford. There is a regular bus service no. 78 between Brightlingsea and Colchester via Alresford and Wivenhoe every day.

Canvey Island

This sandy beach is surrounded by shops, cafes and there is even a promenade. When the sun is shining windsurfers and body boarders can be seen in the water, while dog walkers wander down the beach. There's also a children's tidal swimming pool.

How to get there: Take the A1114 to A130. Continue on A130 and drive to Essex Close in Canvey Island. The nearest railway station is Benfleet, trains to London Fenchurch Street.

Shoebury Common

The beach is one of Southend's only sandy beaches, and the water quality is excellent. Beside the beach is a long grassy area. Shoebury Common beach has a blue flag.

How to get there: Follow the A1114, A130 and A127 to Nestuda Way/B1013 before arriving at Eastwoodbury Ln, Eastwoodbury Crescent and A1159. c2c runs regular services to Shoeburyness from London Liverpool Street.

Dovercourt Bay, Harwich

This is a popular family beach with lots of activities and things to do. It's a sand and shingle beach that carves gently into the sea. There are lots of amenities nearby. This stretch of the coast has blue flag status. There's plenty to see in Harwich too including the Redoubt Fort.

How to get there: Get on the A12 and A120 until you reach Parkeston Rd. The nearest station is Harwich, with trains from London Liverpool Street.

Shoeburyness

Shoeburyness beach, otherwise known as Shoebury common beach, is a blue flag beach consisting of sand, shingle and mud. There is a promenade lined with beach huts behind, and also a grassy area which can be used for a calm picnic.

How to get there: Follow the A1114, A130 and A127 to Nestuda Way/B1013 before arriving at Eastwoodbury Ln, Eastwoodbury Crescent and A1159. c2c runs regular services to Shoeburyness from London Liverpool Street.

West Mersea

The sand/pebble beach popular and it's known for its excellent water quality. There are facilities surrounding the beach, including toilets, cafes and shops. The children's playgrounds are allocated close by, so there's lots for the whole family to do.

How to get there: Head to A12, Braxted Park Rd, Maldon Rd/B1022, and B1025 to East Rd in West Mersea. The nearest railway station is Colchester.

East Mersea

East Mersea contains very open, sandy beaches in a beautiful area. It isn't usually very busy on the beach, therefore it is very pleasant to have a quiet stroll down it. Behind the beach is Cudmore Grove, a huge grassy area, which is a great place to walk to and have a picnic.

How to get there: Take the A12, and follow Braxted Park Rd again before heading to Maldon Rd/B1022 and Colchester Rd/B1026 to E Mersea Rd. The nearest railway station is Colchester.

Bringing an icon of music back to life

WHAT makes a man dedicate 27 years of his life to a show in tribute for a singer who was only famous for two years?

The answer for Matt Salisbury is a complete love for Buddy Holly. The director has been at the helm of Buddy: The Buddy Holly Story since 1989 and has no desire to stop the party.

A musical based around the life of the late rock and roller, the show tells Buddy Holly's story during the last two years of his life and all the music replicates a real life show he performed at.

Matt said the universal appeal of the show means that you don't have to be a die-hard Hollyist to appreciate the songs and the storyline.

He invited all to see his show at Harlow Playhouse, where it will be performed from Wednesday, August 31 to Saturday, September 3.

"It tells the story of the last couple of years of his life," said 46-year-old Matt.

"It takes him through high school and onto the early years he was at Decca Records. It features his fast rise to fame and him falling in love with Maria Elena.

"I would describe it as a theatre play with a lot of music. There are more than 25 songs performed in the show by the live band. It's not a musical as you may know it – it's not got singing as part of the narrative.

"We have a rendition of two of his most famous concerts, one at Harlem and also his final concert as part of the Winter Dance Party Tour in Surf Lake."

Buddy Holly died in a plane crash on February 3, 1959 while on a tour which was set to propel the 22-year-old into megastar status.

But the singer packed a lot into his short life and leaves behind scores of hits including: Raining in my Heart, That'll be the Day, Peggy Sue, Maybe Baby and Early in the Morning.

When Buddy opened in 1989 in London's West End few could have imagined the show would go on more than a quarter of a century later.

An estimated 22 million people have seen this show which has won countless five star reviews and, importantly, has the thumbs up from Maria Elena.

In that time the cast has got through 3,310 pairs of Buddy Holly trousers, usually destroyed through countless knee slides, and amassed 98,000 miles in tours across the country.

The number of trademark glasses is anyone's guess.

"No-one ever thought it would last that long," confessed Matt, who has been director for five years and was previously company manager.

"They thought we would get six months. Les Mis opened three years earlier but long running shows were not the norm back then.

"We have not done much with it. We don't really mess around. The trick to keeping the longevity is to keep it fresh, keep it exciting and keep the energy, and that's all we can do.

"But a play is a play. We don't want 40-year-old actors playing a 20-year-old Buddy."

Harlow Playhouse is the first of a colossal 38 show tour that will take the cast all around the country before finishing in Canterbury in June 2017.

Matt said: "It's exciting but also a very tiring thing. People who have seen the show over a period of years might spot the changes, but most would not notice.

"It is still the best rock and roll show around."

Glen Joseph and Alex Fobbeater alternate the role of Holly while the rest of the cast includes: Miguel Angel, Joe Butcher, Celia Cruwys-Finnigan, Jordan Cunningham, Josh Haberfield, Kerry Low, Thomas Mitchells, Matthew Quinn, Tom Sowinski and Alex Tosh.

Matt continued: "It's a big show. Buddy is never off stage and you can't physically do it every night so we have two actors who combine the role.

"Glen has been with the show a couple of years and I think this will be his last tour.

"We have done 15 years in London in the West End but we are now taking it around the country so new audiences can see it for the first time.

"We launched the touring show in July 2013 and we wanted to find a theatre where we could do the show and do justice to it.

"Scott Ramsey (Harlow Playhouse director) has been so accommodating when we have been there before. They have got a great studio where we can prepare our show and rehearse it.

"We hope it will be a sell-out."

There is one performance per day at 7.30pm, except on Thursday, September 1 and Saturday, September 3 where there will be a 2.30pm matinee.

Tickets start from £23.50 and can be bought from www.playhouseharlow.com/ or booked by calling (01279) 431945.

The effectiveness consultancy Benchmarking have analysed what happens when companies include press advertising in their media mix.

They looked at 500 econometric models, across a five-year period and discovered that adding newspapers dramatically increases the return on investment of other media.

Over half were service companies who saw the effectiveness of their TV advertising double, ROI of their overall campaigns treble and their online digital display enjoy a four-fold increase.

Individual categories also saw impressive results.

Automotive campaigns clocked a 70% increase. In travel, effectiveness trebled. In retail it leapt by 2.8 times. And most remarkable of all, in the financial category, Benchmarking uncovered an increase of 5.7 times.

So, whatever business you are in, you should be in the newspapers.

Wrestling with art seriousness

RORY Green describes himself as an artist who doesn't believe art should be taken too seriously.

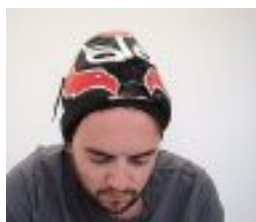

If the man from Harlow is not the first to create a series of works on the theme of WWE wrestling there can't have been too many before him.

His collection This Time There Will Be a Winner will be exhibited at Gatehouse Arts Gallery, in East Gate, Harlow, from Tuesday, August 2 to Saturday, August 13.

"I don't believe art should be taken that seriously," said the 25-year-old, emphasising the word 'that'.

"Many will question how professional wrestling is art and how it can be in a gallery. I want that question because it gets the audience to themselves question what they see as being art.

"Art can be the Hulk Hogans and Bret Harts of the world, it doesn't have to be all still lives of sunflowers and paintings of landscapes, art can be anything you want it to be, as long as you can justify it - that's what I was always taught."

This exhibition will capture the thrill of the wrestling ring and pack it into the small town centre gallery told through a mixture of mediums including photographs, drawings and collages.

Rory said the decision behind holding an exhibition on the subject of wrestling was a logical one, to follow something he was interested in.

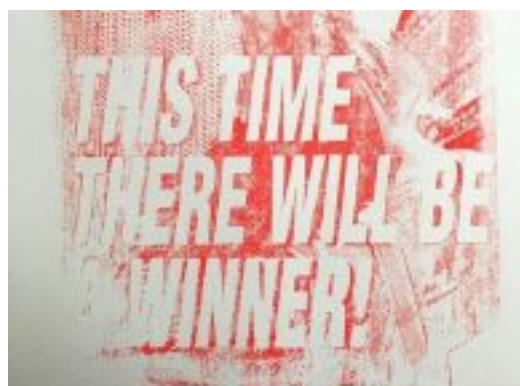

"Previously, when I was studying for my BA in fine art at the University Of Hertfordshire I had looked at football," said Rory, who previously studied at St Luke's Primary and St Mark's Secondary School in the town before moving to Hertfordshire Regional College.

"My brother is a professional footballer and it looked at his relationship with it.

"I questioned how I could take football and move it into a modern contemporary gallery space and where exactly it does and can sit.

"Since starting my MA two years ago I've decided to try something harder for me to take and put in a gallery space and that's professional wrestling."

But for Rory dedicating his art to wrestling was so much more than just pursuing an interest. He described how the fanfare and romanticism around the sport gave the perfect subject matter for a creative and thought provoking series of pieces.

"Professional wrestling always appears to have a certain stigma around it, its fake, it's not a 'real sport' as it's dressed up as sports entertainment," said Rory.

"But the results may be predetermined but what actually goes on inside and outside the ring is far from fake.

"That's what I'm interested in, the difference between the guys in tights in the ring and the guys in tights outside of the ring.

"I began by looking at Mexican wrestlers and how their identities are formed behind their masks and quickly realised that even the likes of Hulk Hogan live behind a mask."

He added: "I want to take the glitz and the glamour of professional wrestling, the fame, the belts the pageantry and then juxtapose it with the real life gritty stories of these icons I had as a child.

"It's exciting for me to be able to make work and put on an exhibition about something that as a child I was so passionate about and in many ways I still am."

The gallery is open from 10am to 3pm on Mondays to Saturdays and admission is free. For further information visit: www.gatehousearts.com.

First class take on classic of comedy

ON A very warm evening Harlow Theatre Company brought cult classic Blackadder to Victoria Hall, Old Harlow.

Despite the heat, it was a very entertaining production all round. HTC did not fall into the trap of imitating the original TV cast but instead relied on portraying the depth of the characters and the humour of the original script.

This made for great fun, and the cast never lost the storyline of the three episodes they were presenting.

The script had so many scene changes that were easily handled on TV but could have been a huge distraction on stage but this was coped with through Brett Stevens' simple but clever multi-scene set and effective theme music (adapted skillfully by Paul Stephenson who also played a loveable Baldrick) that linked the pieces of action seamlessly.

A troupe of Elizabethan-clad surfs that entertained from outside the theatre, on stage and to the end of the show, also managed the props and setting changes to provide atmosphere.

Visually stunning thanks to the outstanding costumes of Joce Johnson this was a play very easy on the eye and pleasing to the ear.

This was a strong cast even by HTC's standards and no one fell short.

Clive Weatherly's outstanding Edmund Blackadder had both panache and cynicism and Wendy Grant's Queen was perfectly pitched between threatening power and childish outburst. Percy, Melchett, Kate (alias 'Bob') and Nursie were strong in their own right as well as in support and the cameo performances of Flashheart, Prince Ludwig, the Whiteadders and the Ploppies all brought lively response from the audience.

Judging from the laughter from the audiences it was indeed a wonderfully funny and entertaining evening enjoyed by all.

Created specifically for this show, the finale, with the characters emerging zombie-like to the sound of Michael Jackson's Thriller, was surprising and inspired and sent the folks home buzzing. Another first class show from HTC at its best.

INTERIORS >with LESLEY TAYLOR

How to make your interiors both beautiful and functional

There's no denying that a home has to be functional. After all, what use is a beautiful bathroom if there is nowhere to keep your toothbrush?

But functional and beautiful are no longer mutually exclusive when it comes to homeware and more often than not it's the little details – the decorative accessories – that can make a big impact on your property's overall look while serving a really useful purpose.

Mirror mirror on the wall...

It goes without saying that the home should have at least one mirror – if only to check your appearance before heading out.

A well-placed mirror can also create the illusion of space which is ideal in smaller rooms such as an entrance hallway or cloakroom. Hang it in the right place and they also reflect the natural source of light to create a more airy environment.

But with the wealth of mirrors now available they can be both decorative and functional. Choose a large statement piece and it will take centre stage in an entire room; or create a bespoke feature wall by hanging a selection of small mirrors close together in a unique pattern.

Vase attacks

What was once simply a receptacle for flowers have now

MULTI-FUNCTIONAL: Mirrors reflect light, create a sense of space and break up large walls. This distressed painted circular mirror is available to buy from the Taylorsete showroom turned into a decorative accessory in their own right.

Vases are available in a multitude of shapes and sizes and are perfect for cementing a colour scheme. Be bold and leave them bare or if flowers aren't your thing but you want to truly define a space try filling with different items; shells and sand in the bathroom, coffee beans in the kitchen or fairy lights to create an ambient source of lighting.

And why not try putting them somewhere different? Choose three varying examples and place them directly on the floor to draw attention to a particular spot in the room or pop by a mirror to reflect the vase and its contents.

Bowl-ed over

It's hard to avoid clutter in the home but it is easy to organise it.

Decorative bowls and boxes are a great addition to up the style stakes in any room but they can also be used to store those everyday items that have a habit of cluttering up surfaces.

Choose three different size bowls and use them to stow keys, money and even household bills you haven't got round to filing. In the bedroom why not pop a beautiful box on top of your nightstand to store all those non-essentials that somehow find their way there such as pens, jewellery and books.

And forget crystal fruit bowls – echo the rest of your home in the kitchen by following suit and using a feature bowl to store fruit, vegetables or even drinking straws.

Throw down

Throws are an extremely versatile addition to those rooms you like to relax in – primarily the living area and the bedroom.

While their basic function may be to add a little warmth they are fantastic for adding a new layer in the décor stakes.

They can quite literally be

Lesley's tips for some functional accessorising:

■ Be brave The beauty of adding small decorative pieces is you can always change them up if you decide you don't like them.

■ Think practically Otherwise these new additions will soon clutter up the home.

■ Be playful Try to find new uses for old objects.

■ Be colourful Pick accessories with bold colours to become focal points.

■ Make it personal Choose accessories that reflect your personality.

Dear Charles

I am writing to you to say thank you for being my selling agent. My experience in dealing with Apple Tree Homes has been way above my expectations of an agent.

Please thank Lucy for her continued updates & smooth process from the beginning to the end. I have recommended you & look forwards to working with you again in the future.

Kindest Regards

R. Boulton

By Stewart Smith

THE market for big SUVs has never been stronger with 23 per cent of sales in Europe being in that category and the latest to enter the fray is the Ford Edge which is set to take on the likes of the Audi Q5, the BMW X3 and Mercedes GLC.

The Edge itself isn't new, it has been around in the USA for several years but the latest model has been engineered and modified to suit European roads and potential buyers this side of the pond.

It's a big motor, weighing in at over two tonnes, and comes with five seats and a huge boot which will appeal to those who need space for family and outdoor adventures.

Starting price is just shy of £30,000, and Ford say they expect it to be bought by families who have an income in the region of £80,000 a year.

Ford already has a couple of SUVs in the Kuga and the compact EcoSport but the Edge is a step up, and with four-wheel-drive and a reasonable ground clearance it can be taken on some mild off-road routes. Nevertheless, most will stick to the black stuff.

It comes in three specifications, Zetec (£29,995),

Titanium (£32,245) and Sport series (£34,500) – and with a choice of two diesel engines, a 180bhp 2.0-litre TDCI with six-speed manual transmission, or 210bhp bi-turbo 2.0 litre with six-speed PowerShift automatic transmission.

Even the entry level Zetec offers very good standard equipment including intelligent all-wheel drive, active noise control to keep the cabin quiet, pedestrian detection, Ford DAB Audio with SYNC connectivity, privacy glass, stop-start, lane keeping aids, a colour touchscreen and 19-inch alloy wheels.

Other features available as options include adaptive steering which automatically optimises the steering response according to vehicle speed, making it easy to manoeuvre at low speeds.

There is also a front-mounted wide view camera which makes restricted visibility junctions or parking spaces easier to negotiate.

Ford says around 50 per cent of Edge buyers are expected to opt for the automatic 210bhp Sport version, which was the one I opted to drive first on a mixed driving route, including some mild off-roading, and I found that despite its size it handled extremely well on tight bends and was impressively quiet on the move.

The six-speed auto box was very responsive and smooth and acceleration was brisk for easy overtaking with a 0-62mph time of just under ten seconds and a top speed of 131mph. Ford claims you can achieve around 48mpg.

If you prefer the six-speed manual version you won't be disappointed. It has a slick gear change and a sprint time of 9.9 seconds and top whack of 124mph with fuel consumption around the same as the auto.

As for driving comfort the new Edge should be ideal for long journeys. The seats are very supportive and from a driver's point of view everything up front is within easy reach.

Room in the back is excellent, with plenty of head and legroom for three six-footers and the boot is enormous, offering 800 litres of space.

Ford says it expects to sell around 3,000 Edges in the remainder of this year in the UK and 5,000 in a full year.

Although the competition in the big SUV market is fierce, especially from the German giants, Ford could be about to topple those, shall we say, over the Edge.

(Various Roads, District of Harlow)
(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic) (No.2) Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice, to make the above Order under section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order: To temporarily close the various lengths of road in the District of Harlow as specified:

Road Name	Descriptions	Alternative Route	Times
The Fairway, Harlow	From its junction with Tawneys Road, north east for a distance of approximately 500 metres.	Tawneys Road, Tilegate Road and vice versa.	20:00h - 05:00h
Church Road, Harlow	From its junction with London Road, south west for a distance of approximately 280 metres.	No alternative route available.	09:00h - 17:00h

The works being undertaken will take place within an 18 month period from 11 August 2016, exact dates and time will be specified on <http://roadworks.org/>. The roads will be closed to facilitate each phase and then re-opened to the public. Access will be maintained for pedestrians and emergency services. Diversion routes will be signed at each location and residents will be informed of the dates of each phase via letter/leaflet drop and advanced warning signs on the road.

Phase One
Planning existing road surface. These works comprise of using machinery to plane off the existing deteriorated road surface to a specified depth and raising/replacing iron works (manhole covers and gullies).

Phase Two
Surfacing. The process entails the laying of various different courses of material for highway construction via machinery. Dependant on the site, a base course may be laid first in order to strengthen the road where needed. After the base course, a binder course is laid. Again, this course is a load bearing layer to improve the roads lifespan. The final layer is the wearing course, this is the final road surface that will be driven on. Once laid, the wearing course is rolled level with machinery to provide a smooth running surface. The completed works will prevent the ingress of water which causes deterioration of the road surface and will improve skid resistance.

Phase Three
a) Reinstatement of white lines if required. Reinstatement of any road markings.
b) Reinstatement of any road studs.

For all enquiries please contact our Contact Centre on 0345 603 7631.
The Order will come into effect on 11 August 2016 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier

Judo kids on a High in Wycombe

Judo

HARLOW Judo Club sent a team of eight players to participate in the annual Northern Home Counties Split Grade Open and The Don Werner Memorial Championships in High Wycombe.

The players ranged from red belt novices to an experienced green belt player.

The competition always attracts very good judo clubs from within the Northern Home Counties area and again this year the competition did not disappoint.

Harlow came back with two gold medals won by Raffy Webb, nine, and Thomas Lambert, 14. There were two silver medals for the excellent Sam Cobbin-Brown, nine, and Owen Lambert, ten, with two bronze medals picked up by Harlow competitors Fleur Sahli, nine, and Kenzie Deamer, ten.

George Franks, nine, and Jake Sahli, 11, did not medal in the event but both competed very well.

All Harlow players had a very good competition within their own groups and despite it being an extremely long day, senior coach Mick Ellis said he was extremely pleased with his young squad's overall performance.

The club, based in Foldcroft, caters for those with special needs and has a coach specifically for this.

Cricket

Super Saturday with Jones ton

IT WAS a super Saturday for Harlow Cricket Club as all five teams sealed victory.

The first team clinched a 70-run win over Billericay, having posted a massive 306-6 from their 50 overs.

Alan Jones hit his maiden century for the first team with an impressive 101, while there were major contributions from skipper Rehman Ahmed (71) and Hafiz Yawar Afzal (50).

Billericay skipper David Houghton really tried to chase down the target with an impressive 104, but Harlow would not be denied the win.

The hosts were eventually bowled out for 236, with the pick of the Harlow bowling attack being Nicky Baxter with 4-11 from seven overs.

Mustanser Meraj (1-26), Callum Sykes (1-34), Mitchell Howarde (1-50), Jake Messenger (1-54) and Afzal (1-52) all picked up a wicket.

Harlow remain in fifth, but could climb to second if they defeat Orsett & Thurrock this Saturday.

The second team's win saw them complete the double over Leigh-on-Sea.

Harlow posted 309, with openers Luke Monger (81) and Conor Ramsay (59) scoring well.

Lewis Aldred and Danny Stone were the pick of Harlow's bowlers with three wickets each as Leigh finished 117 runs short.

The third team defeated South

Woodford by four wickets, with the fourth team beating the same club by seven wickets.

And the fifth team capped off a superb weekend for the club with their third consecutive win, this time against Thorley.

Basement boys frustrate Town

HARLOW Town skipper Neil Gladwin was left "frustrated" after his side lost at Wickford on Saturday in Shepherd Neame Essex League Division Two.

Town were beaten by three wickets by the basement boys as Wickford chased down 281.

Gladwin said: "It was so frustrating as we gave ourselves a huge opportunity to win back-to-back games.

"We bowled okay, but in between the good deliveries, we somehow managed to gift them 45 wides.

"Even more frustrating was the amount of catches we put down.

"We pride ourselves on being good in the field, but when it goes wrong for us, it seems to escalate to proportions no one could ever expect.

"Despite these negatives, we still fought to the end. Many sides would have given up and been beaten convincingly, but we pushed them all the way to the end, which is something I am proud of."

Town were in trouble at 46-3, but Ashley Alderson batted brilliantly to score 94.

Daniel Farmer (55no) and Shaun Alderson (33no) gave the innings extra impetus to finish on 281.

However, a fantastic century by Wickford's Dale Kinsey (104) helped the hosts reach the total in the penultimate over.

Shaun Alderson finished a decent game with figures of 3-56.

Town take on Horndon-on-the-Hill this Saturday looking to bounce back.

Talented Tallulah all set for national stage

Ice skating starlet qualifies for British Championships

TALENTED nine-year-old Tallulah Bowers will show off her skills at the British Novice Ice Skating Championships after her latest success.

The Church Langley Primary School pupil began skating at just four and a half.

She skates at the Lee Valley Ice Centre in Leyton, training three to four times a week, which can be up to 12 hours on the ice.

The talented youngster has three coaches in Christian Newberry, Dannii Goldie and Doreen Hoppe.

They kept a watchful eye over Tallulah this month as she competed in a regional competition and won gold in the level four ladies category.

Her score gave her automatic entry into the British Novice Championships in Sheffield in December this year.

"We are so proud of what she has achieved, she is an extremely hard worker and deserves this so much," said her mother Stacey.

Tallulah has other interests besides her skating. She has attended Makin Steps Dance School in Harlow since she was three-years-old.

Tallulah also loves spending time with her family and her friends too.

"I've taught Tallulah since her first steps on the ice and from that day it was fairly clear that the potential was there," said ice skating coach Goldie.

"We have worked so hard as a team of coaches to prepare Tallulah for a future in skating. We have now found ourselves ahead of all our plans to get Tallulah to the championships in November.

Motivated

"She is very self motivated and is lucky enough to have a very supportive family behind her who drive miles every week to get her to training, competitions, dance classes and anything that goes with becoming a champion ice skater."

Scott Simpson, from Makin Steps, added: "Our aim at Makin Steps is to give our students a strong and comprehensive understanding of the fundamental skills required in dance. Developing their core strength, flexibility, co-ordination and confidence. It's so rewarding to see Tallulah using these skills to complement her skating.

"She has a natural talent and we're so proud of her continuing success and achievements."

Ridsen Wood a cut above

FOR the second year running, Ali Melin, owner of Ali Barbers, has once again agreed to be the sponsor for Ridsen Wood's U13s.

Melin is buying the team's home and away kits and training jackets, including the added bonus of free haircuts for the players throughout the season.

The team collected their brand new kits from Create Identity in the Pinnacles in time for the new season.

"Through the generosity of Ali Melin, it enabled us to free up some much needed funds to take the team on day trips and team building activities.

"That was a major benefit to the team resulting in us finishing as runners-up in the Chelmsford Youth League in our first year together," explained Ridsen team coach John Wakefield.

"The parents and players would also like to thank Ali for his continued generosity and support for the forthcoming season.

"This year is a very big year for this age group as the players move up to 11-a-side football for the first time, but as the squad grows so does the cost of running the team," explained his fellow Ridsen Wood coach Craig Jordan.

Melin also extended his support throughout last year by being a sponsor at the club's race night and donating numerous raffle prizes which helped raise funds for the team and club as a whole.

BRAZIL BOUND: Harlow's Richard Chiassaro has been named in the GB squad for the Paralympics in Rio

RICHARD IS READY FOR RIO 'HONOUR'

Chiassaro gets GB call to race at the Paralympics

by Alasdair Gold
sportsdesk@hertsessexnews.co.uk

HARLOW'S Richard Chiassaro admits it's "an honour" to have been named in the GB squad for the Paralympics in Rio this summer.

The 34-year-old is one of 41 track and field athletes to be named in the squad, with the overall numbers rising to 256 from 19 sports.

This will be the first Paralympics that Chiassaro has been selected for, with the athlete having hit the perfect form at the right time.

His magical summer continued with a T54 1500m silver medal at the IPC Grand Prix Final at the Olympic Stadium on Saturday with a brilliant personal best time.

Chiassaro is currently world number one over 400m and 800m and world number two over 200m.

"The Paralympic team is so strong and to be named as one of the athletes is an honour," he told the Harlow Star.

"In the past four years I've done thousands of miles and all the work I have put in has been worth it.

"I've sacrificed seeing family and friends and it has been hard.

"But now I can say it's all been worth it and I can't wait to get on that plane and show everyone I'm ready."

The Harlow Athletic Club wheelchair racer avoided a mid-race crash to come in second with a superb time of 3min 19.87sec at the Olympic Stadium, ahead of six-time Paralympic gold medalist David Weir in third.

Amazing

The race winner was Marcel Hug from Switzerland, who crossed the line in 3:19.73.

Chiassaro once again proved that he can handle the nerves and tension of big crowds with the stadium packed, and Rio should be no different for him.

"The crowd was amazing," said the racer.

"It was wonderful to be in such a strong line up at such a great event and to come out second was great.

"I proved I now have the finishing pace to stick with the big guys even in a 1500m."

He added: "That was my third 1500m and when I train properly for that distance things can only get better.

"The world championships are in London next year and I'll be aiming for selection and will be treating that as my missed London 2012."

Chiassaro's brilliant performance came just a week after the Harlow athlete broke the British T54 400m record at the Newham Parallel Success and Open Event with a time of 45.98sec.

In doing so he became only the third person in history to ever go sub-46.

He also won the 800m with a personal best of 1:32.96 and the 100m in a time of 15:00.

Last month, Chiassaro captured his first European title as he starred at the IPC Athletics European Championships in Italy.

He also added three silver medals during that week at the Carlo Zecchini stadium in Grosseto.

Hawks all set for Rocks test in big friendly

HAWKS assistant manager Spencer Knight says this weekend's friendly against East Thurrock United will be the 'barometer' ahead of the new season.

Harlow Town played rivals Ware on Tuesday, the game finishing 2-2 with the Hawks goals coming from Alex Read and a late equaliser from Lewis Perkins.

With just two weeks until the season starts, Knight will know a lot more about their chances in the Ryman Premier after this weekend against the Rocks.

"No doubt this will be the toughest one, by a stretch probably," he said. "They're a good side and got promoted last year so it will be a tough test.

"We'll get a good gauge for where we're at going into the season and where we are at this stage of pre-season after Saturday.

"East Thurrock are a club that we all look at as a barometer for the season. They probably weren't fancied too much at the start of the year to get promoted out of the Ryman Premier League, similar to what we are.

Money

"They don't spend bundles of money, and neither do we, contrary to popular belief. If we match up well against them, then we'll look like we're going to have a good season."

Knight was pleased with the competitiveness of the game against Ware, despite conceding some sloppy goals.

One man recently brought in to help them in that department is Lawrence Yiga, formerly of Billiercay Town, Margate Dulwich Hamlet and most recently Canvey Island.

Yiga's versatility was one selling point, but Knight was also happy to bring someone of his experience to the club.

"All the players we've signed in the last six to nine months, we've looked at as being able to compete in the Ryman Premier," he added.

"Lawrence has played in it for the majority of his career, so he knows what it's all about. He brings a bit more experience which perhaps we didn't have.

"He's the right size for us. We have sometimes been a bit of a small side, but he's a big lad and will give us more of a physical presence which is good."
